The Farmer and his Daughters

In the village of Manipuram, there lived a wealthy farmer. He had three daughters. All his daughters were married and living their life happily. The farmer was getting old. He wanted to distribute his wealth to his daughters. But he wanted to know what responsibility he could give to each of his daughters. He called all his daughters and gave each of them a bag of millet. He asked them to use grains in the best way possible and then come back to him after one year.

After one year the daughters came back to their father's house. The farmer welcomed all of them.

First he called the elder daughter and asked about what she had done with the grains given to her. She replied,"Father, I fed those grains to flocks of birds that I saw on my way back to home."
