

In the hab, he said, "Hmm, these carrots are not tasty anymore, like the ones I ate in my childhood." She asked, "Why do you say so, Grandpa?" Grandfather explained to Arivu "The vegetables we grow here do not taste like the ones on the Earth. I really wish you had tasted the carrots from the Earth." Arivu asked eagerly, "How did they grow the crops and vegetables on Earth?"

Hearing this, Grandfather was reminded of life on Earth. He said, "The Earth had fertile soil, so the fruits and vegetables grown were healthy and tasty." She asked, "But, I learnt that humans used chemical fertilizers, and polluted the soil. Here, we get unpolluted food and water. Is that correct?"

Grandfather laughed, "These fruits, vegetables and water are not the same as in the Earth. They are not real." Arivu exclaimed, "Even the water?" He said, "Of course! In Mars, we get water from burning fuels. On the Earth, we used to get water from rain, it was natural, and it was free!" She said, "Grandpa, enough of your stories about the Earth. I know that life there was easy but, here survival is very difficult." He replied, "Yes my dear, adapting to Mars is difficult. Today, we are fighting for things which we got easily."

He continued, "In the Earth, you did not need a spacesuit or an oxygen cylinder. Also, the years are longer here." Arivu said, "Yes, grandpa. In
